

The views expressed in these posts are those of the authors and are current only through the date stated. These views are subject to change at any time based upon market or other conditions, and Eaton Vance disclaims any responsibility to update such views. These views may not be relied upon as investment advice and, because investment decisions for Eaton Vance are based on many factors, may not be relied upon as an indication of trading intent on behalf of any Eaton Vance fund. The discussion herein is general in nature and is provided for informational purposes only. There is no guarantee as to its accuracy or completeness.

EM EQUITIES | EMERGING MARKETS | EQUITIES | HIGH CONVICTION ACTIVE

Brazilian Economy Boosted by Reasonable Government Legislations and Tight Monetary Policy

By: Paul Psaila | February 5, 2024

KEY POINTS

1. A year into President Lula's term, the political and economic situation in Brazil is better than many had expected.
2. The economy will likely grow more than expected as interest rates continue to fall.
3. We believe Brazil remains cheap compared to other emerging markets with lower inflation and rates acting as a tailwind for growth.

Our recent trip to Brazil confirmed three key observations regarding the potential for investing in Brazilian markets a year into the new leftist administration's term.

A year after President Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva took office in January 2023, Brazil's political and economic situation has proven to be considerably more favorable than most market participants initially had anticipated. After Lula narrowly defeated incumbent Jair Bolsonaro, observers braced themselves for a sharp move to the left accompanied by fiscal recklessness. However, the past year has turned out to be better than expected, mirroring Lula's first term in the early 2000s. The economy has experienced a positive turnaround, Congress passed a long-awaited tax reform bill while the pro-Bolsonaro protesters who stormed the capital on Jan. 8, 2023, were sentenced to jail, similar to the January 6, 2021, United States Capitol attack. Moreover, the government has not pressured publicly listed state-owned companies to undertake populist, non-economically driven measures, which helps to explain why companies, such as Banco do Brazil and Petrobras, were the best performing stocks, up 75% and 50% respectively last year.

Secondly, we believe interest rates will continue to fall, helping the economy to exceed growth expectations. In early 2023, Brazil's gross domestic product (GDP) growth was projected to be below 1% for the year. Despite very tight monetary policy, growth came in at 3% driven by strong performances in the financial, mining and agricultural sectors. Unemployment remains very low, while wages and new job creation are growing. Going forward, growth should be boosted, driven by falling interest rates.

Finally, while Brazil was one of the first among emerging market economies to raise interest rates to curb inflation, the Brazilian Central Bank (BCB) is in a rate cutting mode. Post pandemic, the BCB aggressively hiked the benchmark SELIC rate to a peak of 13.75%, a move that puts Brazil in the gold medal category for raising rates. As inflation plunged from a peak of 12% in 2022 to below 5% in December, the BCB cut the SELIC rate to 11.75%. Still, the country has the highest real rates in our investable universe, and we expect more rate cuts in the future. Lower inflation and interest rates will be a tailwind for growth and should lead to investments flowing out of fixed investment into equities. Notably, the market remains cheap versus its own history and the rest of the emerging markets.

Bottom Line: Brazilian equity markets are known for their volatility, fluctuating from being one of the top performers one year to falling to the bottom ranks the following year. Currently, Brazil benefits from reasonable government legislations and tight monetary policy. Lula wants lower interest rates to spur economic growth but is stymied by a central bank that is urging fiscal discipline. As long as this balance holds, we are constructive on the outlook for Brazil.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS

There is no assurance that a portfolio will achieve its investment objective. Portfolios are subject to market risk, which is the possibility that the market values of securities owned by the portfolio will decline and that the value of portfolio shares may therefore be less than what you paid for them. Market values can change daily due to economic and other events (e.g. natural disasters, health crises, terrorism, conflicts and social unrest) that affect markets, countries, companies or governments. It is difficult to predict the timing, duration, and potential adverse effects (e.g. portfolio liquidity) of events. Accordingly, you can lose money investing in this portfolio. Please be aware that this portfolio may be subject to certain additional risks. In general, equities securities' values also fluctuate in response to activities specific to a company. Investments in foreign markets entail special risks such as currency, political, economic, market and liquidity risks. The risks of investing in emerging market countries are greater than the risks generally associated with investments in foreign developed countries.

Paul Psaila
Managing Director
Emerging Markets Equity
Team

"Lula wants lower interest rates to spur economic growth but is stymied by a central bank that is urging fiscal discipline. As long as this balance holds, we are constructive on the outlook for Brazil."

Marketing Communication

To report a website vulnerability, please go to Responsible Disclosure.

Eaton Vance is part of Morgan Stanley Investment Management, the asset management division of Morgan Stanley.

This website is operated by MSIM Fund Management (Ireland) Limited (MSIM FMIL). The business of Eaton Vance Global Advisors Limited was transferred to MSIM FMIL on 1 October 2021. MSIM Fund Management (Ireland) Limited has been appointed as management company of the Eaton Vance International (Ireland) Funds plc and is responsible for the distribution of the funds together with the distribution of Eaton Vance strategies and strategies of Eaton Vance affiliates. For any queries in respect of the products and strategies referred to on this website, please contact MSIM FMIL at 7-11 Sir John Rogerson's Quay, Dublin 2, D02 VC42, Ireland. MSIM FMIL is regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland with Company Number: 616661.

The value of your investment can go up or down so you may get back less than your initial investment. Past performance is not a guide to future returns.

The information on this webpage is not intended for U.S. residents. To visit our U.S. website please click here.

Eaton Vance Management (Registration No. 1121368) and Parametric Portfolio Associates (Registration No. 1217626) are the registered trade marks of Eaton Vance.