The Fund

The Fund's investment objective is total return. The Fund seeks its objective by investing in a core portfolio generally comprised of an approximately equal mix of equity securities and cash equivalents. The Fund's equity investments will generally consist of a diversified portfolio of common stocks that seeks to approximate the pretax total return performance of the S&P 500® Index. The Fund's cash equivalent investments consist primarily of U.S. Treasury securities with a maximum remaining maturity of one year. The Fund will write (sell) call options on the S&P 500® Index on substantially the full value of the Fund's equity securities and write (sell) put options on the S&P 500® Index on substantially the full value of the Fund's cash equivalent holdings.

The Approach

The Fund uses a disciplined implementation process that adapts to changing market volatility without the need for market timing or forecasts. By investing in a core portfolio of equity securities and cash equivalents the Fund seeks to reduce downside participation and partially exchanges the future possible gains from equities for the volatility risk premium. The income generated from option sales may offset the equity risk premium foregone.

The Features

The Fund is designed to capitalize on the tendency for volatility priced into an option to be higher, on average, than the volatility actually experienced on the securities underlying the option. Through the systematic sale of equity index options, investors may harvest the volatility risk premium without the use of leverage and market forecasts. Parametric's research has identified the volatility risk premium as a distinct and persistent return stream.

Performance is for the stated time period only; due to market volatility, the Fund's current performance may be lower or higher than quoted. Returns are historical and are calculated by determining the percentage change in net asset value (NAV) with all distributions reinvested. Returns for other classes of shares offered by the Fund are different. Performance less than or equal to one year is cumulative. The share class has no sales charge.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS

The value of investments held by the Fund may increase or decrease in response to economic, and financial events (whether real, expected or perceived) in the U.S. and global markets. The effectiveness of the Fund's option strategy is dependent upon a general imbalance of natural buyers over natural sellers of index options. This imbalance could decrease or be eliminated, which could have an adverse effect on the Fund. The value of equity securities is sensitive to stock market volatility. Calls and puts written by the Fund will be based on the S&P 500 Index or a substitute for the S&P 500 Index. If the S&P 500 Index appreciates or depreciates sufficiently over the period to offset the net premium received, the Fund will incur a net loss. The Fund's exposure to derivatives involves risks different from, or possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and other investments. Derivatives instruments can be highly volatile, result in leverage (which can increase both the risk and return potential of the Fund), and involve risks in addition to the risks of the underlying instrument on which the derivative is based, such as counterparty, correlation and liquidity risk. If a counterparty is unable to honor its commitments, the value of Fund shares may decline and/or the Fund could experience delays in the return of collateral or other assets held by the counterparty. The Fund is exposed to liquidity risk when trading volume, lack of a market maker or trading partner, large position size, market conditions, or legal restrictions impair its ability to sell particular investments or to sell them at advantageous market prices. The sub-adviser uses proprietary investment techniques and analyses in making investment decisions for the Fund. A systematic investment process is dependent on the sub-adviser's skill in developing and maintaining that process. The impact of the coronavirus on global markets could last for an extended period and could adversely affect the Fund's performance. No fund is a complete investment program and you may lose money investing in a fund. The Fund may engage in other investment practices that may involve additional risks and you should review the Fund prospectus for a complete description.

See the Fund's prospectus for information related to a primary benchmark index selected (if applicable) to comply with a regulation that requires the Fund's primary benchmark to represent the overall applicable market.
