Talking Taxes: You Can't Always Get What You Want

By: Eaton Vance | August 15, 2024

Given the impending sunset of The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), and the potential for the current estate tax exemption to be cut in half, many of your clients may feel pressure to make large gifts now. But it can be hard for clients to part with control and access to a significant portion of their wealth. How can you open the door to discussing their options while also acknowledging that any solution will likely be viewed as a compromise on their part?

Connecting to the Next Generation

By: Eaton Vance | June 26, 2024

Even in the digital age, as clients grapple with infinite information at their fingertips, those seeking to effectively manage their money still benefit from thoughtful, specifically-tailored advice. This is one essential truth of the industry that doesn't change across years, technologies, or generations. Yet it can be difficult to emphasize your value to the adult children of your aging clients.

Asking Open-Ended Discovery Questions in First Meetings

By: Eaton Vance | June 19, 2024

The client interview is at the heart of our 5 steps to better first meetings, because it is an opportunity to ask discovery questions to help provide insight into how life and money intersect for each prospective client. As you prepare for a first meeting with a prospective client, it's important to ask questions that can help uncover the source of their wealth and any biases they may have when it comes to their portfolios.
