Real interest rates suggest value in EM Debt

By: Emerging Markets Team | June 16, 2021

Boston - One of the key macro indicators of value in emerging markets (EM) debt is the real interest-rate differential with developed-market debt — the spread between EM debt and developed markets, after adjusting for anticipated inflation in respective countries. By that measure, in the wake of first-quarter volatility, we see EM debt as offering a number of value opportunities.

As the inflation threat grows, so does the case for floating-rate loans

By: Andrew N. Sveen, CFA | & Christopher Remington | June 2, 2021

Boston - For most of the year, prospects for a new, post-COVID inflationary surge have only strengthened. In our view, so too has the case for the floating-rate loan asset class, both as a hedge against possible rising rates and a potential beneficiary of a resurgent economy.

The "anti-bond" rides again — Loans excel as diversifiers in volatile 1Q21

By: Andrew N. Sveen, CFA | & Christopher Remington | April 12, 2021

Boston - A number of years ago, we first described floating-rate loans as the "anti-bond" for their potential to provide valuable diversification when traditional bonds sell off. Loans lived up to that name in dramatic fashion during the first quarter — the most volatile period since the onset of the pandemic a year ago, as investors grappled with the prospects of stronger growth and higher inflation.

SOFR on track to replace Libor as loan benchmark by year end

By: Andrew N. Sveen, CFA | & Christopher Remington | February 16, 2021

Boston - The transition to the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR) as a replacement for the London Inter-bank Offered Rate (Libor) — the predominant benchmark for floating-rate loans — is on a smooth track, and we expect it to be official by December 31, 2021.

By: Stephen C. Concannon, CFA | & Andrew N. Sveen, CFA | January 25, 2021

Boston - High-yield corporate bond and floating-rate loan markets ended 2020 on the up, with a strong rally following news of vaccine efficacy in November. The loan market closed the year with a 3.1% total return, while the bond market was up just over 6%, aided by higher sensitivity to falling interest rates.

Senior loans are off like a startled filly

By: Andrew N. Sveen, CFA | & Christopher Remington | January 19, 2021

Boston - A positive and nearly coupon-clipping year for senior loans was remarkable in light of all the asset class endured in 2020. The S&P/LSTA Leveraged Loan Index finished with a calendar-year total return of 3.12% as loans overcame a viral pandemic, the ensuing forced shutdown of the global economy and a sharp technically driven selloff in the secondary market — a comeback that marks the latest test of this asset class's mettle.
